EXPLANATION.

ABOUT the year 1633 two persons, by the same name, viz. "JOHN PICKERIN,"* came to this country from England. In all probability they were cousins. One of them settled in Ipswich, Mass. From him have descended the Pickerings of Salem and vicinity, among whom were the late Col. Timothy Pickering of Revolutionary fame, of that city, and his son, the late Hon. John Pickering of Boston. The other "John Pickerin" settled at "Strawberry Bank," subsequently termed Portsmouth, of the State of New Hampshire.

The accompanying Genealogy is of him and some of his descendants. To obtain a full account of all of them would be an impossible task, as traces of many are lost. Still in regard to others, data not obtained by the compiler, may be hereafter readily procured and added, especially of the Pickerings of Greenland, Newmarket, and other towns adjacent to Newington and Portsmouth, N.H.

Constant professional duties have greatly interfered with his attempts to render this Genealogy more extensive. It is believed, however, that it is sufficiently definite as to the trunk and main and many auxiliary branches of the New Hampshire "Pickering Tree," to enable most persons, now living of the race, to trace their lineage. That some errors may exist in it, is possible, for it is rare for any genealogy to be perfect, even when prepared by one of the immediate members of the family represented by it.

Many true and distinguished men and accomplished women now living, can claim "John Pickerin" as an ancestor worthy of them.

In the following pages two columns of numbers are placed in the left margin of each; the right-hand column commencing with "1," opposite the first name of the genealogy.

A number of the left column, opposite any number of the right column, refers the reader to that number where other information may be found. If it be less than the number in the right column, against which it stands, it will refer back to the parentage of the individual; if it be greater, it will refer forward to his marriage and distinct family.

* In the earlier records the name of Pickering is written without the g, as long since and now used.

JOHN PICKERING

OF PORTSMOUTH, N. H.

AND SOME OF HIS DESCENDANTS.

X 1 JOHN PICKERIN¹ d. Jan. 18, 1669. His will is dated Nov. 11, 1668. He went to Portsmouth (then Strawberry Bank), N.H., as early as 1633, from Massachusetts, coming originally from England. He appears to have been a man of good business capacity. He was one, who in 1640, gave 50 acres of glebe land for the ministry. He had several grants of land from the town, besides his South Mill privileges, where he erected a mill. He was buried in the Point of Graves Cemetery. Part of his estate was entailed. A portion situated on Great Bay in Newington, some 500 acres in extent, was taken by his son Thomas. In 1862, 170 acres of it was occupied by James C. Pickering, who was born thereon in 1771. It descended in regular line to him, there never having been a deed of the land made since the original grant of it to "John Pickerin" in 1655. In Portsmouth, John Pickerin's estate covered the Point of Graves Cemetery and extended over the site of the South Church to the mill bridge, taking in the whole shore from the Cemetery to near the site of the Universalist Church.

2 4 JOHN PICKERIN² (of John¹), of Portsmouth, N.H., b. 1640. His will is dated June 21, 1720. Proved May 15, 1721. He m. Jan 10, 1665; Mary, dau. of Anthony Stanyon of Hampton. He was a man for the times in which he lived, and possessed great strength and a powerful will. He exercised much influence in matters of church and state. He gave the "Point of Graves Cemetery" as a public burying place, and bequeathed to the South Parish the lot on which the Old South Church was erected. He was a military man, having had a command in Portsmouth as captain, for a number of years. Was a representative from Portsmouth when John Cutt was President of New Hampshire. Was a member of the assembly called by Lieut. Governor Cranfield in 1684. During the suspension of government consequent on the impeachment of Governor Andros in 1689, Capt. Pickerin, with a company of armed men, went to the house of Richard Chamberlain, who had been Secretary of the Province, and demanded the public records. Receiving a refusal, he took them by force and concealed them. Afterwards, in 1692, he was summoned before Lieut. Gov. Usher, threatened and imprisoned, but for some time would neither deliver the books nor make known the place of their concealment, unless by order of the Assembly. Subsequently he gave them up. Upon the dissolution of Andros' government, he, in 1690, was a member of the convention for reunion with Massachusetts, and was also a representative from Portsmouth to the assembly at Boston, Mass. He was a lawyer and King's Attorney. Was a member of the Assembly from 1697 to 1709, and in 1699 was elected Speaker thereof. Was also Speaker in 1704, 5, 6, 7, 8 and 9; and was counsel in the great case of Allen vs. Waldron. His will is dated June 21, 1720, and was approved May 15, 1721. He must have been about 80 years of age at his decease. His estate was appraised at £3185 and his personal at £20, 18, 0. But one child survived him, viz., his daughter Mary.

Not long after he had built his log hut on the Great Bay at Newington, N.H., and had commenced to clear the land, an English Man of War anchored on the Piscataqua River. A press gang being sent ashore to obtain recruits, some of them met Thomas, while he was engaged in felling trees on his premises. After conversing with him and complimenting him on his muscular appearance, they informed him that he must follow them, but he declined, and on their commanding him to do so, he seized one of them by the neck and bore him to the ground with a threat to sever his head from his body, at the same time raising his axe. The fellow begged for mercy, and with his companions at once beat a retreat.

In 1681, Thomas Pickering was taxed 4 shillings and 6 pence as his part of the Province rates for Portsmouth. He was one of the signers of the petition against the Lieut. Gov. Cranfield.

After admission to the bar he opened an office at Greenland, but, shortly afterwards, moved to Portsmouth, where he soon became distinguished. He was candid and liberal in his practice, and faithful to his clients. Possessing a placid temper, and a disposition kind and benevolent, and being social in his habits, he soon acquired popularity. He was an Honorary member of the Mass. Humane Society, and the American Academy of Arts and Sciences. Dartmouth College conferred on him the degree of L.L.D. He was a delegate to the convention for forming the State Constitution, adopted in 1783. Was a Senator in the Legislature, and in 1790, was appointed Chief Justice of the Supreme Court of Judicature, which office he held until 1795, when he was appointed Judge of the District Court of New Hampshire. A few years previous to his death he suffered from mental derangement, in consequence of which he was removed from office.

An aged gentleman, of New York, states, in regard to Mr. Richard Pickering, that he "knew him well. He was a very exact and respectable man, and was the richest one in the town. Every person acquainted with him, had confidence in him. He was upright, honest and square, a good citizen, and whatever he said was believed."

Another writes: "He was a man generally esteemed; one, in early life, of great physical power and industry. He held several offices and took a strong interest in affairs, and gave advice with much power and judgment. His wife was a lady possessing much beauty of person, as well as energy of character."

He was one of the Newington "Sons of Liberty," who, at the period of the Revolution, pledged their lives and fortunes in support of their country, and against its oppressors.

Mr. John Knight Pickering, in an eminent degree, possessed several of the prominent mental and physical characteristics of his ancestors, John Pickerin¹, and his sons John and Thomas. His residence and place of business were principally at Portsmouth, N.H.; although, for a short period, he, with his brother-in-law, ^{Richard} Langdon Goddard, was engaged in mercantile pursuits, in the city of New York. The following obituary notice of him, is from the Portsmouth Journal of Feb. 26, 1859:—

“In this city, on Monday afternoon, Feb. 21, John Knight Pickering, Esq., aged 66 years: a merchant of energy and skill, perseverance and success; in whose demise the interests of this city, as well as his own domestic circle, sustain a serious loss.

Thus, with a sad heart, are we again called upon to record the departure, from this life, of one of our most valuable and eminent merchants. The deceased was born at Newington, of highly respectable parentage, but early removed to this place, where he has ever been engaged in active business. His ancestor was the first John Pickering, whose name and deeds stand prominent in the early history of Portsmouth. For energy of character, decision, perseverance, sterling integrity, and an exact, methodical system in the transaction of business, he probably had no superior in this community. His word was indeed a bond; and from what he regarded right nothing could swerve him. In the victory he was able to make over a strength of natural temperament greater than falls to the common lot of man, he manifested, in his social and domestic life, a corresponding strength of mind. Though forewarned of the fatal disease, which would soon terminate his life, yet, until recently, he continued to move among us with a firm step and cheerful countenance; and when, at length, his physical constitution yielded, with calm submission he was prepared to resign his spirit into the hands of his Creator.”

122 128 RICHARD PICKERING⁵ (of Richard⁴, of Thomas³, of Thomas², of John¹), of Newington, N.H., b. Nov. 22, 1796; d. June 29, 1876; m. Martha Smith Ambrose, of Pembroke, N.H. The accompanying obituary notice is from the Portsmouth Journal:—

“In Newington, Thursday morning, June 29, 1876, Richard Pickering, Esq., after a long life spent on the old homestead in Newington, about one decade having been added to the allotted term of mortal existence. Although not free from the infirmities common to the lot of humanity, he was a man of more than ordinary intellectual abilities. Having entered Harvard University at a very early age, with the legal profession in view, he graduated with usual honors, but never to any extent practised the profession for which he seemed to have been by nature and diligent study especially adapted. On one occasion he conducted an important suit for himself, in which he was entirely successful. He was for many years a contributor to the Portsmouth Journal over the signature of “Publius,” a forcible, ready writer on “constitutional liberty,” and other topics of political interest. He attacked President Polk’s administration, vigorously opposing his policy in regard to the Mexican war, and dangerous tendencies to governmental consolidation. An uncompromising foe to slavery, he loudly demanded the expurgation of the foul blot from the federal constitution, and its abolition by constitutional amendment; argued vigorously against the admission of Texas into the Union as dangerous to our amicable relations with Mexico; which danger was soon realized by the war which followed. He held that the constitution was the Palladium of our temporal liberty, as the Bible was the chart of our eternal salvation; and battled with Romish Priests when first they demanded the expulsion of this book from our public schools. With great distinctness he pointed out the true relations of capital and labor, vindicating their respective rights in a manner unselfish and impartial. Nearly forty years ago he publicly denounced the sub-Treasury scheme, jealously denying to the Executive the keys of the national treasury, the custody of which the people had wisely predetermined to retain in their own hands. Toward the close of his life he became aware that he must soon pass into the vale beyond; but he expressed no other regret than the natural unpleasantness of leaving associations long held dear, for the untried and unknown.”

AND HIS DESCENDANTS.

NOTICE. — Since the publication of the "Genealogical Data respecting John Pickering of Portsmouth, N.H., and his Descendants," the author has, unexpectedly, received so many letters of approval and commendation thereof, that he has been induced to prepare this Supplement; a copy of which, it will afford him pleasure to present to any one, who, having the original work, will apply to him personally or by letter, for the addition.

1884.

ADDENDA.

See page 5, line 21.

Miss Mary P. Thompson, of Durham, N. H., states in a communication to the compiler :

“Mr. Brewster, in his ‘Portsmouth Rambles,’ remarks that John Pickering¹ could not write his name. I must say I doubt this very much, for he was a man of great ability, who had court business entrusted to him, settled boundaries between different towns, and was called to sign his name among the dignitaries of the Province, especially the Governor. I know there is, in the New Hampshire Provincial Papers, an account of 1634, signed thus :

‘The signe by me † John Pickering,’

with a long dagger-like cross before the name, very much as usual with an archbishop in signing his name; . . . but in all the other signatures of that time in the same Papers, those who could not write made their mark in the usual way, in this wise :

“In the grant of glebe land in Portsmouth, 1640, signed by the Governor, &c., is the name of John Pickering, with no cross, episcopal or otherwise.”

See page 5, line 26, and for “Rebecca” substitute Deborah.

In respect to them, Miss Mary P. Thompson has written the compiler, as follows :

“I see that a Lieut. Pickering was killed in the battle of the Bay of Minas, Nova Scotia, in 1746. He was dangerously ill at Grand Pré, and was basely murdered by the French, who with a superior force surprised the Massachusetts troops, in the midst of a snow-storm, Jan. 31, 1746. The commander, Col. Arthur Noble, and about 60 men were killed and 50 wounded, the rest being obliged to capitulate. This Lieut. Pickering was from New Hampshire. I cannot place him in the Genealogy, but perhaps he was one of the sons or grandsons of Capt. Thomas Pickering, who was barbarously cut in pieces by the Indians at Casco Bay. His son Thomas, in consequence, had an inveterate hatred of the aborigines. He was also styled Captain, and sometimes has been confounded with his nephew, Capt. Thomas Pickering, who was killed in a naval engagement at the age of 32 years.

“It was Capt. Thomas Pickering, a grandson of Thomas, slain at Casco Bay, who, when only a little over 30 years of age, organized the first act of the war of the Revolution, by the capture of Fort William and Mary, at Newcastle, N. H., Dec. 14 and 15, 1774 (four months before the skirmish at Lexington, Mass.), the honor of which has always been ascribed to General Sullivan, who, then, was a militia major residing in Durham. Historians mention Sullivan and Langdon as the leaders of the expedition, but it was Pickering who, on the night of the 14th of December, scaled the ramparts, seized the sentinel, and admitted his companions. The very fact that Capt. Cochran, commander of the place, surrendered his sword to Pickering, would seem to show, conclusively, who was the real leader.”

This important historical statement goes far to prove a Pickering to have been among the first, if not the first, to light the match of revolution that resulted in the separation of our country from Great Britain.

In the N. H. Provincial Papers, VII., p. 618, is a letter, dated Oct. 7, 1775, from the Portsmouth Committee to the Committee of Safety at Exeter, and stating: “On the second day of this month the ship Prince George, of which Richard Semmes is master, put into this harbor from Bristol, bound for Boston, loaded with 1,892 barrels of flour. Upon notice of her arrival, Lieutenant Thomas Pickering, with a boat and hands, by order of Capt. Titus Salter, went on board, and finding the said provisions were intended for the use of Gage’s army, took her into possession and brought her up to this town, unbent the sails and applied to this committee, &c., &c.” This Thomas Pickering was probably the leader at the capture of the fort William and Mary, or, as Brewster thinks, the captain of the Hampden, a twenty-four gun ship, on which he was killed, in taking a valuable letter-of-marque, in 1779.

In vol. 1, page 223, of “Brewster’s Rambles,” Daniel P. Drown is mentioned as a nephew of the above Capt. Thomas Pickering, whereas he was cousin to him, and a nephew of Thomas⁵ (of Thomas⁴, of John³, of John², of John¹).

See page 6, line 34. — After “m.” insert 1682; and after line 35 insert:

“Hon. John Plaisted, born in 1659, was a member of the New Hampshire Assembly from 1693 to 1727, speaker in 1696, 1717, and 1727. He was a member of the Royal Council from 1702 to 1716; judge of the Superior Court from 1699 to 1719, and chief justice in 1716."

See page 7, line 34. — It is traditional that the original name of Mary Pickering was Gee.

See page 8.

The wife of James Pickering³ (of Thomas², of John¹) was named Mary, and they must have had a son Stephen, according to the Newington church records of Rev. Joseph Adams, in which is stated: "Stephen, son of James and Mary Pickering, was bapt. March 9, 1740; the other children on the 16th of March, 1740." There is a Joshua Pickering mentioned by Rev. Mr. Adams as having a wife named Deborah, and a child named Mary, bapt. on Mar. 11, 1739. There is also mentioned a Nicholas Pickering, who married Hannah Bickford March 7, 1758; and that John Gee Pickering and Deborah Mills were married June 3, 1773; that Thomas Pickering m. Jerusha Furber July 10, 1759; that James Pickering m. Mercy G. Nov. 16, 1773; that John Pickering tertius m. Elizabeth Vincent, widow, July 26, 1770; that John Pickering m. Deborah — June 18, 1724; that Thomas Pickering m. Mary Janvrin May 19, 1743.

See page 8, and add after "8. Polly," 9. Abigail, m. Huntress.

See page 8, line 11.

Brewster, in the Rambles, vol. 2, page 105, states that "Lieut. James Pickering was the first Pickering born in Newington. He had three brothers and eight sisters. One of the sisters married a Brackett, from whom descended the Brackett family now living in Greenland; one married a Seavey, of Rye, who was an ancestor of the Sheafe family — the mother of the wife of the first Jacob Sheafe; another married a Weeks, of Greenland; one, a Grew, and one a Chamberlain. From the old Lieutenant sprang all the Pickerings of Newmarket (some of whom have emigrated to the South), all those in Rochester and Barnstead, besides some in Newington."

The third brother of Lieut. James was probably named Samuel, and resided in Greenland.

See page 8, line 18.

In place of "1717," substitute Jan. 16, 1718, Mary Nutter, Rev. Joseph Adams officiating.

See page 8, line 25.

Benjamin Adams, the husband of Abigail Pickering, was son of Rev. Joseph Adams, of Newington, N. H., and cousin-german of John Adams, second President of the United States. It was to this Rev. Joseph Adams and 105 others, that Gov. Wentworth, on May 20, 1727, made a grant of the town of Barnstead, N. H., though few settlements were made there prior to 1767.

See page 8, line 27, and add:

“m. Aug. 28, 1740, Mary Nutter, Rev. Joseph Adams officiating. She was probably cousin to John Pickering⁴.”

Hon. William King Atkinson, the husband of Abigail, daughter of John Pickering⁴ (of Joshua³, of Thomas², of John¹), was of Dover, N. H. His uncle, George King, was chief heir of the distinguished Theodore Atkinson, of Portsmouth, who was foremost in provincial matters, being the King's Councillor, Secretary of the Province, Judge, &c., &c., and who owned one fifth of the State, it is said. William King Atkinson was a grandson of Abigail Atkinson Oberne (a cousin of Hon. Theodore Atkinson), who married Capt. William King. The grandson was a graduate of Harvard College in 1783, married Abigail Pickering, and subsequently died in Dover, Sept. 29, 1820, in the 56th year of his age. In 1786 he opened a law office in Berwick, Me., but the next year removed to Dover. In 1788 he was appointed Register of Probate, and held the office for more than thirty years. In 1789 he was Solicitor of Strafford County, and in 1803 was a Justice of the Superior Court. From 1807 to 1812 he was Attorney-General of the State. George King dying childless, William King, the nephew, became his heir, and, like the uncle, assumed the surname of Atkinson.

Copley's portrait, painted in 1762, of Frances Deering Atkinson, alias "Lady Wentworth" (whose first husband was Theodore Atkinson II., who was in Harvard College in 1757, and died Oct. 28, 1769), and her second husband, John Wentworth (the last Provincial Governor of New Hampshire), inherited by William King Atkinson, and after him by his daughter Frances (who was born June 21, 1797, and married Hon. Asa Freeman of Dover, and d. in 1883), — was sold, some time ago, by Mrs. Freeman (mother of Francis A. Freeman), it is said, for $1900. It was never in possession of the Wentworth family, but was purchased by the late James Fisher Sheafe, and is now (1884) in the Lenox Library of the city of New York.

Thomas Pickering³ was a highly successful farmer, and had large sums of money on loan; but the State, by its unrighteous Legal Tender Act, stripped him of all. He gave each of his six sons a good farm, and was always noted for his hospitality. His home was one of good cheer, a special resort of ministers of the gospel: it being a custom with the host to present each, on taking his departure, with, at least, a silver dollar.

She was a sister of Benjamin Thompson (page 23), and a daughter of Hon. Ebenezer Thompson, a native of Durham, N. H.; and, for many years, one of the most prominent and distinguished of its citizens. He was Representative; Clerk of the House and Senate; Secretary of State; Councillor; Commissioner to New Haven in 1777; a Member of the Committee of Safety; Justice of the Superior Court; Delegate to Congress, etc. He died in 1802, aged 65 years. He was son of Robert Thompson, and was born in Durham, N. H., Mar. 5, 1737, O. S. His father died when the son was only fifteen years of age, leaving him, though the youngest of his sons, the homestead farm that had been in the family from the first grant. Dr. Joseph Atkinson, a kinsman of the Hon. Theodore Atkinson of Portsmouth, N. H., a neighbor and friend of Robert Thompson, having no children, took a great interest in young Ebenezer from his earliest boyhood, directed his education, and finally made him his heir. Through the influence of Mr. Atkinson, Ebenezer studied medicine with him, and became a practitioner in Durham. Hence, in the early records and State reports, he is often termed "Dr. Thompson." Never liking the profession, he drifted into that of law. In this he was very prominent, and it might have been greatly lucrative had he been willing to exact his proper dues, which a generous and hospitable disposition, on his part, interfered to prevent.

Besides the prominent offices heretofore mentioned as held by him, he was one of the State electors when General Washington was first chosen President; and, also, for the three subsequent presidential elections. He dropped dead from his chair, while conversing with a neighbor, on Aug. 4, 1802. His father also suddenly fell and expired in a path, in sight of his home, in 1752.

HON. EBENEZER THOMPSON married Mary Torr of Dover, N. H., she being of English descent and noted for her great beauty of person.

Their children were.

- I. Sarah, who married James Leighton. In early life he served under Com. John Paul Jones, on board his celebrated ship "Ranger."
- II. Ann, who married Rev. Curtis Coe, then pastor of the Congregational parish in Durham;—he being grandfather to Joseph W. Coe, Esq., now (1884) residing in Durham.
- III. Mary (alias Polly), married Richard Pickering of Newington, N. H.
- IV. Ebenezer, generally called "Col. Thompson," who first married Martha Burleigh, a descendant of two of the early Governors of Massachusetts, viz: John Winthrop and Thomas Dudley. The only child of the marriage who lived to grow up and marry, was the wife of the late William Claggett, counsellor-at-law, of Portsmouth, N. H. At the period of his first marriage, Col. Thompson lived in Durham, N. H., where his first wife died. He afterwards resided in Portsmouth, and was very wealthy, but was nearly ruined by the “embargo” and “great fire.” His second wife was Mary Weeks of Greenland, N. H. Their children were: 1. The late Capt. Jacob W. Thompson, of Portsmouth. 2. The late Capt. Ebenezer Thompson of Durham. 3. Mrs. Dr. Bartlett of Stratham. 4. Rev. George W. Thompson, living, in 1884, in Stratham. 5. Benjamin; and, 6. A daughter who married a Mr. Odiorne. Col. Thompson's third wife was Elizabeth, daughter of Judge Hale of Portsmouth, and great-aunt of the Hon. Jeremiah Smith, who (in 1884) is Judge of the Supreme Court of New Hampshire.

V. Benjamin Thompson, born March 31, 1765, died Jan. 31, 1838. He married Mary Pickering of Newington, born June 15, 1774, daughter of John Gee Pickering (see page 23). She was a notable housewife. He was a gentleman of property, being a large landholder,—and for about twenty years was Clerk of the Court, etc., etc. Their children who attained mature age, were:

1. Ebenezer, who settled on the Judge Thompson homestead, as did his son Ebenezer, and his son Lucian, the present owner.—To the daughter of Ebenezer—Miss Mary Pickering Thompson, residing (1884) in Durham, N. H.—the compiler of this work is greatly indebted for many interesting genealogical and historical data, respecting her immediate relatives, the Thompsons and Pickerings.
2. John, a graduate of Harvard College, a lawyer, who died unmarried.
3. Benjamin, who, in 1884, is a resident of Durham, is unmarried, and in his 79th year of age.
4. Ann Mary, who married her cousin, Capt. Ebenezer Thompson. They both died the same day, in 1853.

The house where Mrs. Mary Pickering, daughter of Judge Ebenezer Thompson, and wife of Richard Pickering of Newington, was born, is, in 1884, standing unchanged in its principal features, it being a large structure situated a half a mile from Durham. It was erected by Judge Thompson. After the decease of the Judge, his widow went to Newington, to end her days with her favorite daughter, Mrs. Pickering. Her decease took place Nov. 14, 1807. Her remains were interred by the side of those of her husband, in the family cemetery near their said resi-

See page 28, line 28.

Joseph Coe, the husband of Temperance Pickering, was son of Rev. Curtis Coe, pastor for 26 years of the Congregational Church in Durham; and was the fourth minister settled over that church. He was a graduate of Brown University. His son Joseph was born June 1, 1782, and died April 26, 1832. At the age of sixteen years he commenced business, and for many years was engaged in shipbuilding and in mercantile transactions. He became one of the prominent men of Durham.

Mrs. Temperance Coe, his widow, was b. August 22, 1788, and d. Jan. 29, 1864. For more than 46 years she was a member of the Congregational Church, and was well known as a decided, earnest, and intelligent Christian. She was fond of reading, was well informed on most if not all subjects of general interest, especially those appertaining to religion, and was always devoted to the prosperity of her church, and the cause of missions both foreign and domestic. She was an advocate for reform, was opposed to intemperance, slavery, war, and other evils to which mankind were subjected. All wise efforts to promote the welfare of the human race interested her sympathies, and called forth her prayers for success. As a woman she was true in heart and deed; as a wife and mother, unexceptionable.

Her son, Joseph William Coe, now a resident of Durham, N. H., m. Dec. 2, 1861, Harriet S. Churchill. Their children are :

1. Mary E., b. July 9, 1864.
2. Richard Edwin, b. July 17, 1866.

5. Mabel Alice, b. Apr. 15, 1872.
6. Harriet Anna, b. June 4, 1879.
7. Helen Edith, b. July 24, 1881.

Mr. Richard C. Coe, son of the late Mrs. Temperance Coe, d. in New York city, March 1, 1884, aged 65 years. He was, for several years, a wholesale merchant there, and was a gentleman of great business ability, and possessed qualities of mind and heart which gained for him the respect and esteem of all who knew him.
